A ROUND OF TALK.

A Change

She possessed a mind discerning,
That was stored and crammed with learning,
And her thoughts, forever burning,
She could suitably express.
All her sentences were rounded,
And her words imposing sounded;
I was really quite astounded
As I listened, I confess.

It was rather an infliction,
All this verbal unrestriction,
But her elegance of diction,
Each precise and polished phrase,
And the beautiful selection
Of the words and their connection
And her most correct inflection—
They were quite beyond all praise.

But I saw her very lately,
And she did not talk ornately;
All that language suave and stately
She no longer kept on tap.
She was saying, "Bessums diddums!
Where de bad old pin got hiddums,
In his musser's p'ecious kiddums,"
To the baby in her lap.

NOT A CENT.—Washington county people evidently do not expect to take much stock in the Kentucky exhibit at the World's Fair as according to the best information not one cent of contribution has been received from this county for that purpose. Appeals have been made through the columns of this paper and in other ways but no responses have been made. Even the contest for the most popular school teacher has failed to awaken any interest although this is really a good thing as it gives the successful contestant a free trip to the World's fair —absolutely all expenses paid The Kentucky Exhibit Association, which was formed to raise $100,000 for a Kentucky Building and Full Display of the State's Products and Resources at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis next year is bending every effort to close as far as possible the subscription list by July 1 and if the citizens of our county will put their shoulders to the wheel for the next fortnight, as is being done in other counties, our apportionment will have been raised by the end of the month. The Association wants to print a list of the counties soon after July 1 showing how much each has contributed, what each would have had to pay had the Legislature made an appropriation and how much remains for each county to subscribe.

***

POPULAR—As was published in these columns at the outset the Free Rural mail system in this county is proving more and more popular the longer it is tried and the number of mail boxes along the various routes has increased to such an extent that the carriers now have quite enough to do to keep them from loitering on the wayside. It is astonishing to think however how much "knocking" there was at first on the establishing of these routes. This opposition, which by the way was without effect, was led by a few country postmasters and storekeepers who were personally effected and was joined in to a certain extent by a few citizens whom the routes really did not effect one way or another. The opposition is now however practically at an end and as the people become more familiar with the workings of the service we may rather expect to hear of petitions going in for the starting of more routes than otherwise.

***

HARVEST—Wheat harvest opens in this county this week and a good yield is promised. The winter was an exceptionally good one on the wheat fields and although the crop suffered some from the effects of the early spring drouth it came out wonderfully under the influence of the rains later and the heads are well filled and the grains are fine. Farmers are well pleased with the indications of a good yield.

***

REMARKABLE.—A remarkable coincidence occurred in the vote at the late Democratic primary for nominations in this judicial district. In the four counties Mr. Shuck, candidate for the nomination for the judgeship, and Mr. McElroy, one of the candidates for Commonwealth's Attorney, received exactly the same number of votes, 1,392. In a contest where there were over 4,300 votes cast this is a very remarkable incident, and one that would not occur again perhaps in a thousand elections. Judge Patteson's majority in the district over Mr. Shuck is 1,579, while Mr. Durham received 873 plurality over his leading opponent Mr. McElroy.

***

OF LITTLE USE.—Judging from the work accomplished by at the last few terms of court it appears that our grand jury have become rather an useless institution and an expense from which there is little results The grand jorymen at the last February term of court met and deliberated and drew their little "per diem" for about three weeks and succeeded in returning a few indictments which when they came up for investigation at the recent term hardly resulted in enough fines and convictions to pay for the trouble of a trial. This record while it speaks well for the morals of the community shows that the state is put to a good deal of expense for nothing. When a grand jury can hold a continuous session of eighteen or twenty days at a cost of twenty-four dollars a day and then fail to rake up enough cases to occupy the court more than a couple of days it indicates that something is amiss.

***

BASE BALL.—Local interest in the national game of base ball which was stimulated to some extent last week by the game with the Nebraska Indians has reached a high pitch and the boys are practicing hard. There is some good material here now that some of the college boys have come home for the vacation, and Springfield will shortly have a well organized team of players that will be prepared to meet all comers

Revenge.

B. J. Ewen, the chief witness for the prosecution in the trial of Curtis Jett and Tom White at Jackson, for the murder of J. B. Marcum, has begun to feel the vengeance of those whose murderous reign is threatened by his disclosures. His hotel, valued at $10,000, and representing all his savings, was fired by an incendiary and burned to the ground. Only a few articles of clothing were saved. Two men —teamsters in the employ of Hargis Bros —were arrested on suspicion of firing the building. Bail was offered for them by County Judge Hargis and Sheriff Callahan, but they were held in custody for action by the grand jury.

Ladies And Children Invited.

All ladies and children who cannot stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups, cathartics, etc., are invited to try the famous Little Early Risers. They are different from all other pills. They do not purge the system. Even a double dose will not gripe, weaken or sicken; many people call them the Easy Pill. W. H Howell, Houston, Tex., says nothing better can be used for constipation, sick headache, etc. Bob Moore, Lafayette, Ind., says all others gripe and sicken, while DeWitt's Little Early Risers do their work well and easy. Sold by C. J. Haydon,

Snake Yarn.

BY TILFORD HUFF.

Raymond Robinson, ten year old son of Lis Robinson, was bitten twice by a large yellow spotted snake last Sunday. The lad, in company with several companions, was playing on Thompson's creek, when the reptile glided up to him and bit him on the lower part of the leg. The snake then started off, but after going some yards turned, came back, and sank its fangs into his leg the second time, and disappeared. The boy was overcome with frights and sank down and began crying. The lad's wails of distress must have touched a tender chord in the serpent, for it came from the bushes with a small weed in its mouth and coiled itself in the boy's lap. Not knowing what else to do Raymond took the weed from the snake's mouth and unconsciously began to chew it, and the reptile again left him. It is thought the weed was an antidote for the poison inflicted in the system, and that the snake, regretting what it had done, furnished the means of saving the life of the boy, who beyond his fright, suffered no ill effects from the two bites. I know there are people who will laugh at this story, but every boy in the crowd, including the victim, will furnish a voucher that every word I have written is true.—Harrodsburg Herald.

Shocked By Lightning.

During the heavy storm last Saturday morning lightning struck the residence of Mrs. Mattie Coleman, on the Springfield pike, about four miles east of here, and slightly damaged it Will Cooper, a negro boy about 12 years old, was sitting on a trunk in the house at the time, and the bolt struck him in the back of the head, rendering him unconscious for some time afterward. He finally recovered and is now out of danger. His escape from instant death is marvelous.

The other occupants of the house were shocked in a slight degree by the electricity. We are told that lightning struck in five different places in the immediate vicinity of Mrs. Coleman's residence during the storm, but without serious results.—Standard

CAUTION

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds, perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. At all druggists. C. J. Haydon

McElroy.

The race for Commonwealth's Attorney Saturday, revealed the fact that Henry S. McElroy has friends at home of whom he may feel proud. Although defeated for the present he has made himself solid with his people. He is a young man of sterling worth and plenty of ambition and will doubtless be heard from in the future. He is too valuable a man for his worth not to be recognized by the good people of Kentucky. Of him it can be truly said that he is honest brave and brainy; just the kind of man the people need to guard their public interests. Here's hoping that he may some day reach that goal which his ambition craves and for which his model life so admirably qualifies him.—Lebanon Enterprise.

Two Fools And a Pig.

For several months a novel law suit has been in progress at Boone's Fork, Letcher county, between Daniel Bently and Samuel Ben ly. brothers. The case involved covers a small pig the value of which is not more than $1. Already the men have expended about $100 apiece, and have now taken the case to the Letcher Circuit Court for a hearing. Each has employed legal counsel. Daniel Bently alleges that the pig, the property of Samuel Bently, broke into his garden, destroying some vegetables He put the animal in a rail pen to await damages His brother refused to pay damages. Then the suit began.

Narrow Escape.

While returning from a drive on the Springheld pike Monday Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cambron's horse became frightened at Mr. Potter's approaching automobile. Mrs. Cambron jumped from the buggy. Mr. Cambron attempted to turn the horse in the road to go the other way when it became unmanageable and backed the buggy rapidly. The front wheel run a lock and tilted the rear portion of the vehicle throwing Mr Cambron forward between the wheels. By this time Mr. Potter, who had stopped his automobile and left it in the road, seized the horse by the reins and prevented further trouble. It was a very narrow escape for Mr Cambron. The horse in these parts has not yet become accustomed to the automobile and conductors of these machines should be extra careful with them on the highways. In cities automobiles are limited as to speed by ordinance and there should be a law regulating their travel on our turnpikes and other roadways.—Lebanon Enterprise.

Do you get up in the morning with a pain in your back? Are you restless in your sleep? Do you have to rise during the night? Do you feel careworn and dull—no life or energy. If so, you should lose no time in procuring Gayoba. It is just the remedy you need and one that will give you relief. Sold by Wood & Campbell.

Strange Loop in Kentucky River.

As there is more or less interest just now in the town of Jackson, Breathitt county, Ky., let me mention one fact in connection with the place which may have been overlooked in the rush. At Jackson, or in its immediate environs, the small boy who finds it difficult to throw a stone across a vacant lot, or the baseball player who is making a record when he throws a ball 115 yards, can stand within a foot of the Kentucky river and throw a stone or a ball seven miles down the stream. Doesn't seem to be possible, does it? Yet it is, and I have done it. Let me explain. The Kentucky river at this point runs among the hills, which are steep and rocky, and at Jackson it strikes the hills opposite the town in the upper side and bounds back, so to speak, in a great loop around a territory of bottom land seven miles in circumference, coming back to the lower side of the sharp dividing ridge to within a few feet of itself seven miles above by the measure around. This ridge is 200 or 300 feet high, and is so narrow that one for 200 or 300 yards on its top must walk carefully or he will slide into the water below. A tunnel 68 feet long has been cut under the "saddle," and a mill at the lower end gets seven miles of fall in 68 feet. There are a good many rivers with loops in them, but I know of none equal to the Kentucky river at Jackson.—New York Sun.

Worst Of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala., "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine, Only 50c. It's guaranteed by C. J. Haydon druggist

Show Interest.

An exchange has this regarding making a newspaper that is made interesting: "The editor must and does depend upon his friends to help make his paper interesting Show some interest in your local paper and give all the information you can to the publisher. Marriages, deaths, births or any little item may interest some one. Such items are often absent simply because you don't let the editor know it. Did you ever think what a steady letter writer a newspaper is? Week after week it goes on telling of those little things that happen in our neighborhood. If you undertook to write half as much as the paper tells you would give up in despair. The letters would grow shorter and farther apart and finally cease. People in a live town recognize this and take pleasure in giving the editor items he would otherwise never learn."

Novel Horse Sale.

Sheriff Rannon got struck on a fine horse and offered the owner enough of $5 and $10 bills to encircle him for the animal. The offer was accepted, the bills pinned together, and the horse brought $65. The owner walked off "cussing." while the Sheriff rode away smiling.—Hawesville Plaindealer.

Carnegie's Benefactions.

There has just been published a complete list of all the benefactors of Andrew Carnegie to cities, towns, individuals and institutions up to date, and the whole list reaches almost $100,000,000. Expressed on the map of the United States, no state appears to be left out. The list of libraries furnished covers a whole column of fine print, while the universities endowed and the institutions and schools upon which money is lavished seem almost endless. Of course, one third of the total was given to Scotland and to the city in which he grew up a poor boy, but the cities of Allegheny and Pittsburg in this country have alone received nearly $20,000,000. It seems just a little hard to repudiate the good deeds of such a man as this, and even to return his gifts with contempt, as has been done in some cases, though every dollar that has been paid out has been for the improvement mentally and physically and otherwise of his fellowmen. It will be seen that very little of Mr. Carnegie's money has gone for the direct maintenance of of charitable institutions. Mr. Carnegie does not believe in supporting paupers or other dependants, his whole purpose being to help men and women to be self sustaining.

"I have been troueled for some time with indigestion and sour stomach," says Mrs. Sarah W. Duffie, of Lee, Mass., "and have been taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets which have helped me very much so that now I can eat many things that before I could not." If you have any trouble with your stomach why not take these Tablets and get well? For sale by Haydon's drugstore.

Vicious Boy.

On last Wednesday, Willie, the little five-year-old son of Chas. Suttka, foreman of the tailoring department of the D. and D., was playing in the front yard at his home on Walnut street, when Allen Steinberger aged six came along and seeing the boy playing with a knife went into the yard and took the knife away from him and stuck him in the pit of the stomach, the knife entering about two inches. The wound bled inwardly and it was feared that blood poison would set up, but he is doing nicely at present and it is thought that he will recover.

Steinberger was arrested and confessed, but on account of his extreme youth it will be impossible to do anything with him as he is under the age of discretion The attack was entirely unprovoked and showed a vicious disposition that is astonishing in one so young. This crime is the culmination of many offenses that have been committed by this boy and his brothers, all of whom are more or less worthless. It would be advisable for the county court to give the whole family short notice to leave the community, as it would be a good riddance of bad rubbish. The wounded lad is deaf and dumb.—Danville Advocate.

Remarkable.

Lightning played a peculiar freak in one instance last Saturday and a young negro boy had, at the same time a marvelous escape. He works for C. C. Figg, but at the time was in a neighbor's house for shelter, sitting on a trunk near the wall. The lightning burnt up a coat hanging just above him, struck him on the head so as to lay the scalp bare, and free of kinks, ripped his clothes in the rear parts and burnt his back slightly but strange to say, left him otherwise uninjured.—Record.

Turkeys Kill A Snake.

While in the Fork neighborhood this week, Mr. J. M. Aldridge, an aged gentleman, said: "I saw those two turkey hens yonder kill a big black racer the other day, and it was the hottest fight ever witnessed in Garrard county. The snake was trying to catch one of the little turkeys when its mother tackled it. The snake wound itself around the old turkey's body and the war was on. The other turkey hen then bounded into the arena and for fifteen or twenty minutes the battle was terrific, but when the smoke and dust cleared away the six foot snake was cold in death and the victorious turkey hens and little ones strutted away with a commendable air of victorious pride. Mr. Charles Bordett also saw the above battle."—Stanford Democrat

News from Breathitt county during the past week has been plentiful and full of sensations. Aside from the incidents attending the trial of Jett and White the two men accused of the murder of J. B. Marcum the public was given another shock the other day by the announcement that the new hotel and home of Capt B. J. Ewen the chief prosecuting witness had been burned by incendiares. The testimony in the murder trial is all in and the case is being argued by the attorneys. Opinion is divided as to the probable verdict of the jury many looking for a hung jury. Unless some decided and unlooked for wave of reform sweeps over the county of Breathitt within the near future however the chances are that the perpetrators of this latest of a series of mountain assassinations will never be punished.

Great sympathy has been aroused throughout the state for Capt. Ewen, who sustained the loss of his home which represented all of his savings, on account of the brave stand he has taken in testifying against the men accused of the Marcum murder. Money for his relief is being freely subscribed by citizens all over the state Capt. Ewen's hotel and home which was burned represented a total loss of $10,000 with no insurance.

This is certainly a period of terrible disasters from the elements. The town of Heppner, Oregon, was visited by a cloudburst Sunday night and almost wiped out of existence. The loss of life is variously estimated at from 300 to 500.

The weeding still goes on at Washington. A dispatch says that two more warrants for persons implicated in the Postoffice Department scandals are said to have been issued from the Washington District Attorney's office.

Southern Europe.

A traveler writes: "I have often been struck by the ease with which people in southern Europe are amused. In Paris 100,000 people go out to Longchamps for the Grand Prix race, and half a million people go out and line the roads on their return to see them come back. In Rome at the feast of the "Divino Amore" 5,000 people go out on the Campagna to a spot where once stood a temple to Venus and hold a picnic, while 50,000 go out and line the Appian way to see them return. In Madrid this peculiarity is even more marked. On the Puerta del Sol about a thousand people stand around and do nothing outdoors, while crowds of people sit indoors or lean from balconies to watch them do it. And in Seville the idle rich sit in clubs and cafes on the Sierpes to watch the ladies walk by, while the lower classes walk by to watch the idle rich sitting in the clubs and cafes on the Sierpes."

Reading the Bible.

How long will it take a person to read the Old Testament, with its 592,439 words, or the 181,253 words of the New Testament? And how long to read the 773,692 words of both?

A man can read understandingly 100 words every minute. By hurrying a man can read 120 words, or probably more. I will assume that a man can read critically—that is, carefully and understandingly—at least sixty words a minute. That is slow reading, being only 3,600 words an hour. Suppose a man should devote an hour a day to the Bible.

At this rate he would read 108,000 words in thirty days, or in a month's time. He would therefore read the Old Testament in less than six months, and he would finish the New Testament in less than two months.

His Last Hope Realized.

(From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.)

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race on the day in April. During his travels up about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. The one little bottle worked a complete cure, and he cannot help but feel grateful. The reason for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by Haydon's drugstore.

The Doctor was born and reared at this place. Both young men have gone to school here and out of a number of classmates of 16 years, only two of them are living here today, Mrs. Lula Hyatt and Miss Maymie Merritt. They visited the cemetery where their mother and sister and friends and relatives are buried; next the schoolhouse where they spent many happy hours. We regret very much that they could not prolong their visit with friends here, and hope to be made happy again in the near future with a visit by them. "Success to you, young men"

Two of our young men started Sunday to see their best girls, but the horse they were driving refused to go and they were compelled to take it afoot, but the boys proceeded on their way The next morning we noticed the boys were wearing a very sad frown, but whether the frowns were caused by some other boys beating their time on the girls answering in the negative, one can only conjecture.

There is quite a complaint made by the farmers about cut worms and other insects eating up the tobacco plants that have been put out. Some are of the opinion that in many fields there will not be more than half a stand, and it is likely that on this account there will not be as large a crop put out as was expected in the spring

One of our widowers was seized with a determination to marry some weeks ago and made several desperate efforts but each time made a failure. Last week he resumed his efforts and went to town and after purchasing a beautiful suit of clothing, came back singing "Little Annie Rooney." Mr. Z. P. Leachman and family attended the funeral of Miss Ida Godby at Perryville Sunday Miss Godby spent several vacations from school with Mr. Leachman's family.

The effort to reorganize the Christian church here has so far resulted in talk. There are about 100 members scattered throughout the community, but there is practically no organized church. A good man should be secured to conduct a series of meetings and make a permanent organization. Rev. C. C. Allen or Rev. J. A. Karr seem to be the choice of the people and either of them ranks among the ablest preachers of their denomination, and would certainly do a good work. Let's get together and agree on one of these men, and launch this aberation into practical work

Fitch Godby received a telegram Friday evening announcing the death of Miss Ida Godby, of consumption, which sad event occurred at Chaplin. Deceased was a daughter of the late Rev E. H. Godby, and step daughter of Mrs. Annie Godby of this place. She was a student in the Millersburg Female College and would have graduated from that institution in this month, but about six months ago her health began to fail and she was compelled to leave school in the hope of regaining it, but she gradually grew weaker until the end came. She is survived by three brothers, John and Lee, of Boyle county, and Fitch, of this place, and one sister, Miss Dot Godby, of Chaplin, who have the sympathy of a wide number of friends. The remains were interred Sunday in the Perryville cemetery. LILAC

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. A SERIOUS DINER.

The Way the Heroic Emperor Charles V. Ate His Meals.

The story of a German gentleman, Baron Pollnitz, who was a guest at the table of the Emperor Charles V., furnishes a good idea of the gastronomic customs of those times. Pastrow's description of the latter of the greatest ruler in his day is very interesting.

Kings, princes and counts served the repast. There were invariably four courses of six dishes. The emperor but no one to carve for him. He began by cutting his bread in pieces, large enough for a swallow, and then attacked his plate. He often used his fingers while he held the plate under his chin with the other hand.

When he felt thirsty he made a sign to the "doctor" standing by the table; then they went to the sideboard for two silver flagons and filled a goblet which held about a measure and a half. The emperor drained it to the last drop, practically at one draft.

During the meal he never uttered a syllable, scarcely smiled at the most amusing sallies of the jesters behind his chair, finally picked his teeth with quills and after washing his hands, retired to a window recess, where anybody could approach him with a petition.

When and Where to Rest.

Rest does not mean absolute inaction, but a change to mental occupation if muscular work has been indulged in, and vice versa if mental work has been indulged in. We should endeavor to sleep eight hours out of twenty-four under the most favorable conditions.

As to where: In a comfortable bed on a firm hair mattress and pillows or cotton mattress and pillows, as both answer the same hygienic purpose; number of hours three a day if our work is muscular, or an out of door active life if mental, the same amount of time to some complete change of locality, to obtain a variety of objects and to still others of environment, and so on and so on.

As to when: (1) As nearly as possible one-fifth of the year. (2) An annual vacation. (3) After excessive mental or physical exertion.

But newly remember that too much work means wear, wreck and too much rest means rust, death.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Miracle of Emerson's Style.

Emerson's highest artistic quality has in it always a suggestion of miracle. One cannot see how it was done," and imitation is disaster. The sentence, the phrase, creates in the mind a sense of instantaneous, so keen is the vibration. Style may be said of all works of high artistic genius, but in the case of Emerson the miraculously luminous effect is peculiarly felt. One is thrilled as the Emerson exposition as finds so the visitor she read the following words, even if he could not remember having read them before, or, not understand them at first. Their origin, so rich and various, has been palace of sight and sound, carrying in thy senses the morning and the night and the unfathomable galaxy; in thy brain the geometry of the city of God, in thy heart the lower of love and the realms of right and wrong."—Century.

The Unfortunate Clam.

The first man who used the expression "Don't be a clam" should be crucified without pity. A piece of advice chock full of wisdom. Somebody is after the clam in season and out, day and night. It is despoiled in soft shelled infancy on dishes, and fried and stewed, is sealed in cans, made into stews and chowders, baked in big pies on the seashore and due for deliverance's battle.

The clam furnishes food for many men of many lands and also for seals, polar bears, the walrus, foxes, crows, gulls and fishes, and there never was a bait, with the exception possibly of pozzy clam—i. e., ground up porgies—that equaled the clam for sea fishing.

Carthage's Great Snake.

The ancients firmly believed in monster serpents of all kinds and of both the land and marine species. During the wars with Carthage a great snake is said to have kept the Roman army from crossing the Bagrada river for several days. The monster swallowed up no less than seventy Roman soldiers during this combat and was not conquered until a hundred stones from as many different catapults were fired upon it all at one time. The monster skin and skin were preserved and afterward exhibited in one of the Roman temples. The dried skin of the creature was 120 feet in length, according to Pliny.

As the result of an old grudge James Slayton was killed in Marion county Friday by his brother-in-law, Perry Bright. Slayton was cut in the throat and back with a knife and he lived but a short while. Bright, who is about sixty years old, surrended and was placed in jail at Lebanon.

There will be a free entertainment and lecture on Maccabeeism at the Christian church, Willisburg, Ky., Saturday evening, June 50th at 7:30. M. F. Elkins, State Com., K. O. T. M., will be present and deliver the lecture. The Harrodsburg Degree Team will also be present in full regalia. Everybody cordially invited.

Bishop George W. Clinton, A. M. D. D., preached at Johnson's Chapel Monday night to a large and appreciative audience. He discoursed on "Obedience." His argument was able and throughout eloquent, and he displayed much research of thought in his impressive illustrations. Several white people were present among whom were ex-Congressman Col. John W. Lewis and Postmaster W. A. Waters.

The seven-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh St.les died last Sunday night after a short illness of spinal meningitis. The funeral services were held at the Methodist church on Tuesday conducted by Revs. Prather and Ward. The little one was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stiles and the sympathy of their many friends goes out to them in their sad bereavement.

Mr. W. G. Boblit, an old and respected citizen of the Booker neighborhood, died after a short illness last Tuesday morning. Mr. Boblit was a well-to do farmer and a good citizen who enjoyed the respect of all who knew him. He was about 65 years of age and leaves several grown children among whom are Messrs. Ed and Richard Boblit, of Springfield.

The annual commencement exercises at St. Catherines which took place yesterday attracted the usual large crowd and the program as carried out was pronounced one of the best ever given at that popular institution. The graduates—four in number are; Miss Edith Price of this place, Miss Hundley of Stanford Miss Webb of Chicago and Miss Norton of Louisville. Miss Price received the valedictory and Miss Webb the salutatory. The program was interspersed with musical selection by pupils and graduates and the exercises were thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended.

A large crowd turned out last Friday afternoon to witness the base ball game between the home team and the Nebraska Indians. The game was too one sided to at any time assume the proportions of a contest, but was interesting. The Indians are a good lot of ball players and put up a good game at all times. The star players of the aggregation however are white men, there being only five Indians on the team. The game resulted in the overwhelming defeat of Springfield by the score of 38 to 8. The local team lacks practice and are in no shape to tackle a team like the Indians which is really one of the best in the business.

W. M. Edwards Dead.

Mr. William M. Edwards, one of the county's best citizens, died at his home two miles from Springfield on last Wednesday night after a long illness of a complication of diseases. The deceased was about 63 years of age and was born and reared in Washington county. He was never married and lived with a sister on a small farm near town. He was an upright and honorable man and none stood higher in the estimation of his neighbors than he.

Shortly after the war broke out Mr. Edwards enlisted in the cause of the Union, and was mustered in Company E. Tenth Kentucky Infantry at Lebanon, Nov. 21. 1861. He followed the fortunes of that regiment of which Col. John M. Harlan was first commander, and who was afterwards succeeded by Col. W. H. Hays, through three years of hard campaigning. He was in the battles of Chickamauga, Mission Ridge, Jonesboro, and other famous engagements. On Dec. 6, 1864, Mr. Edwards was mustered out of the army at Louisville, and returned to Springfield and soon engaged in farming. He was a member of the Bevil Palmer Post G. A. R., and always took an interest in the affairs of that organization. He was a good christian man and joined the Presbyterian church during the war.

The funeral took place at the Springfield Presbyterian church on Friday morning last and was conducted by Rev. G. A. Strickland.

Mrs. Sherard Hundley of Stanford is here this week to attend the commencement at St. Catherine, her daughter being one of the graduates.

Mr. William Mock formerly of this county but who has been an inmate of the Soldiers Home in Indiana for several years is here this week to visit relatives.

Senator Byron Price of Arkansas was here Monday endeavoring to interest some local capitalists in some land down in his state which offers great prospects for investors. Excursion rates are offered to the point to all who desire to go and investigate.

Miss Annie Muratta has gone to Lexington, Va., to witness the graduation of her nephew Marshall Duncan at Washington and Lee University. Marshall successfully passed all examinations and secured his degree for the four year term in three years a feat rarely accomplished.

Dr. and Mrs. J F. Rinehart and two children of Oakland, Cal., came in last week for a visit to relatives in the county. Dr. Rinehart has been very successful in the far West and has a good practice. His health however has not been good. He says that the balance of the Kentucky colony are all doing well.

Mrs A. C. McElroy, Col. John I McElroy and H. M. Grundy returned Saturday night from an extended trip to Kansas City and other points. Col. McElroy and Mr. Grundy accompanied by Miss Annie McDowell and Emmett McElroy of Kansas City went on a trip to Colorado Springs and Pike's Peak. They were in Kansas City during the big flood and were delayed in returning home for several days on account of the high water.

DRESS HINTS.

Don't wear pink and scarlet if the hair is frankly red. Green and white are the colors.

Don't indulge in too many flowers, feathers and flares if you possess much height, weight and color.

Don't always wear red if you are a brunette, or think blue the only color for blonde. Reverse the order.

Don't wear black, mauve or green if the hair is black and the complexion swarthy. Yellow, scarlet and pink should be chosen.

Don't count that time lost which is spent in studying the effects of harmonious colors. Color is of prime importance in dress.

Don't hesitate to sacrifice a bargain and shut your eyes to hats that are "dreams," if you want to make a pleasing picture of yourself.

Don't wear a hat that too closely follows the outline of the face if the face is round and plump. It suggests the framing of the full moon.

Don't choose delicate shades of pink, lavender and blue, except a deep navy blue, if the eyes are blue, the hair dark brown and the complexion not clear.—Exchange.

High Heeled Shoes.

Women who persist in wearing high heeled shoes are doing themselves a great injury. From the physical standpoint the harm done is in constant evidence. In the first place the muscles of the heel are strained and then the whole body is thrown out of balance. The weight of the body is not distributed properly. This results in the shifting of the entire system. A constant nervous strain comes from this throwing the body out of proper position; for all women try to keep their equilibrium, and the struggle between nature and the abnormal shoe's inclination is disastrous. Then a woman who wears high heeled shoes cannot walk any distance. Lack of exercise is a result, and the health receives another injury. Of course the fact that a high heeled shoe cripples the foot is obvious, but the effect upon the general health is more serious than many imagine.—Dr. Cyrus Edson in New York World.

Girls and Sewing.

In spite of the advent of the sewing machine we ought still to teach our little girls to sew. Every day the little one should devote a short time to the use of the needle. At first, no doubt, it may be considered a trial until the pressure of a skillful handling of the needle can be felt. But may not the training of character also be going on while the little fingers patiently work at "over and over" that will not look even or hemming that seems so endless? Those poor little fingers will be often pierced. Tears perhaps will be shed when imperfect work is picked out, but if with the effort such qualities as attention and accuracy are developed, together with those good old virtues of lifelong need, patience and perseverance, is not the result well worth the daily discipline? In due time there will come, too, the joy which work well done brings to the worker as a reward for our painstaking little women.

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book, telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Washington Letter

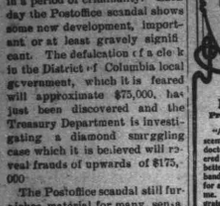
The Federal Government seems to have become involved in a period of criminality. Each day the Postoffice scandal shows some new defalcation, important or at least gravely significant. The defalcation of a clerk in the District of Columbia local government, which it is feared will approximate $75,000, has just been discovered and the Treasury Department is investigating a diamond smuggling case which it is believed will reveal frauds of upwards of $175,000.

The Postoffice scandal still furnishes material for many sensational dispatches, and yet many of them have to be so carefully worded, in order to avoid liability of libel suits, that they convey actual information only to persons familiar with the inside workings of government departments. At present the fire of the investigation is turned on H. H. Rand, "confidential clerk" to the Postmaster General, promoter of various mining and other corporations, of one of which Machen, now under indictment by the grand jury, is President. It is freely claimed that Rand has all along acted as spy for the Machen crowd and has kept them informed of all that took place in Mr. Payne's office. The President has taken a hand in the affair and has asked Payne to explain the retention of Rand in his present position, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow is working under serious disadvantage for the reason that when a Washington newspaper exposed certain frauds in the Machen ring last winter the Postmaster General and others succeeded in stopping the exposures for six months and the malefactors have largely succeeded in covering their tracks. The Postmaster General still suppresses the report of Bristow showing the condition of affairs in the Washington Postoffice and placing former First Assistant Postmaster General Perry Heath in a bad light, and meanwhile Heath is making preparations for an extensive trip in the Orient.

Because of the Postoffice investigation and the probability that there will be some reorganization in that department, the greatest interest is manifested in the chairman of the congressional committees on Post offices and post roads. There is little doubt but that Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania will succeed Senator Mason as chairman of the Senate committee and he is already in Washington familiarizing himself with the workings of the department. Speaker-to-be Cannon is considering the subject very seriously. Whom he will appoint as chairman of the House committee is as yet undetermined, but Representative Boutelle of Illinois is being considered. Several of the senior members of the House committee are chairman of other committees and it is not believed they will care to exchange them for the postoffice committee.

Professor Wiley's borax eating boarders are to be given a two months vacation from their diet of borax and formaldehyde. The young men are overjoyed at the prospect but there is a curious reason assigned for the granting of their petition for a rest. It appears that Dr. Wiley has been weighing his patients each day.



Mrs. Fred Unrath,
President Country Club, Benton Harbor, Mich.

"After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.

WINE OF CARDUI

Suddenly the warm weather came on and several of the young men took the liberty of getting their hair cut short. They did not do this on scientific principles however, and never thought to shave the hair saved and weighed so that Dr. Wiley's figures are all upset and it is claimed he told them to take any kind of a vacation they pleased as he was disgusted with them.

A Famous Pudding.

There is no other pudding on earth to which so much honor is paid as the huge beefsteak pudding served up daily at the most famous tavern in London, Ye Olde Cheshire Cheese, in Fleet street.

This pudding has been served up every day without break for nearly 200 years. Garrick, Goldsmith and Dr. Johnson used to enjoy it. Every great writer in England makes a point of eating it today. It is inseparably associated with English literature.

Every evening after the pudding is cooked there is a solemn procession. The proprietor of the tavern, bearing the pudding on a big dish, goes first, followed by the cooks, the waiters and the entire staff. They bear the pudding all around the tavern, the customers doing homage to it. Then and not till then it may be cut up and eaten.

Why Gold Is Rare.

Why is gold so rare? Simply because it is heavy. There are only two metals that are heavier—namely, platinum and iridium. Remember that at the beginning the earth was a body of gas. By gradual condensation it became liquid, while now the whole of its mass save only an outer crust much thinner in proportion to the whole bulk than is the shell of an egg would be a fluid but for the fact that it is held together by tremendous pressure. Naturally in the course of its formation about a center of attraction the weightier particles composing the globe gathered about that center. Accordingly we find that the earth as a whole weighs five times as much as water, while the rocks forming the crust are only about two and a half times as heavy as water.

The Four Lettered Name of God.

Is it not passingly singular at least that the name of God should be spelled with four letters in almost every known language? In Latin it is Deus; Greek, Zeos; Hebrew, Adon; Syrian, Adad; Arabian, Alla; Persian, Syra; Tartarian, Idga; Egyptian, Amun or Zent; East Indian, Esgi or Zeni; Japanese, Zeln; Turkish, Addi; Scandinavian, Odin; Wallachian, Zeus; Croatian, Doga; Dalmatian, Rogt; Tyrrhenian, Eher; Etrurian, Chur; Margarian, Oese; Swedish, Codd; Irish, Dich; German, Veit; French, Dieu; Spanish, Dios; Peruvian, Lian.

A Sealskin Church.

The Eskimos possess the most remarkable place of worship in the world. It was a sealskin church. Forty sealskins were stretched over a light framework, and in this tent, 18 by 12 feet, services were held every Sunday. But the church came to an untimely end. One hard winter the Eskimos' dogs, being half famished, dined on the sealskins, and only the frame was left. The Eskimos have now erected a dog proof tabernacle.

Public Offices For Sale.

In England in the time of George II. if you wanted a place under the government you could buy one. The sum of £500 would get you a comfortable berth in the victualing office, for instance, where the perquisites, pickings and bribes for contracts made the service worth having. Members of parliament, who had the privilege of franking letters, sometimes sold the right for £300 a year.

They Moved.

A Boston trolley car was taking on a load of women, and the conductor frantically urged the gentle passengers to "move up!" but, as usual, his behests were not obeyed. "Now, move up, ladies; please do move up!" he cried. No one stirred an inch. "I say, ladies, move up! The motorman is a great deal better looking man than I am!" The ladies swept forward en masse.

Caucasia.

The 10,000,000 inhabitants of Caucasia are made up of the remnants of many ancient nomadic tribes. According to Russian statistics, only 2,500,000 are Russians, 1,000,000 are Armenians, 1,500,000 Tartars and Georgians, while the rest are principally Mohammedan tribes. It is asserted that there are thirty different languages and dialects spoken in Caucasia.

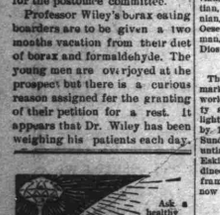
Her Brilliancy.

Bacon—Did I understand you to say your wife said the conversation was brilliant and sparkling?

Crimsonbeak—Those are her exact words.

"What was she doing at the time?"

"Oh, she was furnishing the conversation."—Yonkers Statesman.



Ask a healthy woman what she would sell her health for and she would tell you that the choicest diamonds in the world would not buy it. What use for diamond rings to emphasize the shrunken figure, or carriages to ride up the cheeks hollowed by disease?

Health is the first requisite to womanly happiness. General Debility in women has its origin in local womanly disorders. Cure the diseases of the delicate womanly organs and the general health is perfectly restored.

The remarkable benefits experienced from the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription are due to this medicine's perfect cures of womanly disorders. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weaknesses.

"It affords me great pleasure to be able to say a few words in regard to the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. Flora Ann, of Dallas, Jefferson Co., Mo. "I was tempted to try these medicines after seeing the relief given my mother. I am sixty-three years of married life. I was greatly bothered with painful periods, also a constant drain, and was rendered not very weak and unfit for work of any kind. I became satisfied there was nothing left of me but skin and bone, so I got me a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' After he saw the wonderful effects of that one he got me two more, and after I used them all up there was no more pain, and I began to gain in flesh very rapidly. I was a 'Favorite Prescription' makes a weak woman strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for this medicine which works wonders in curing weak women.

CARLYLE AND EMERSON.

No Evidence That Either Ever Seriously Studied Christianity.

The grave charge is to be brought against both Carlyle and Emerson that, while they were the product of Christian civilization and drew the substance of their message from the religious faith of their people, there is no evidence that either ever seriously studied Christianity. The greatest phenomenon in human history engages but lightly the attention or the enthusiasm of either, nor does either fathom the need of the humanity that has risen on the strength of the gospel of Christ. It was the dim perception of this fact that led Lord Jeffrey to remark to Carlyle that he went about as if he were to found a new religion. No one had done anything for man's soul until he came. One can hardly read the correspondence of Carlyle and Emerson without the feeling of their excessive consequentialness in the presence of the immense historic achievement of spiritual genius; in the presence of the spirit, the teaching and the influence of Jesus. Both were essentially modest men, and yet they lived in the sense of a uniqueness and an importance which they do not possess. They are both frequently oracular when uttering with literary distinction only the commonplace moral wisdom of the Christian world. It is a valid criticism upon Carlyle and Emerson that they failed to recognize the rock whence they were hewn and that they did not exhaust the quarry; that they were oblivious of the pit whence they were digged, and that the precious metal remained after they were taken out in boundless abundance.—Rev. George A. Gordon, D. D., in Atlantic.

The Black Death In England.

In England the black death in the fourteenth century made its first appearance in Dorsetshire and quickly spreading over the west it reached London by way of Oxford, leaving death and desolation behind it everywhere. It was as fatal in the country as in the town. Whole villages were depopulated and small towns almost wiped out of existence. The dead lay unburied as they had died, for priests had been swept away with their flocks, and in many parishes there was no one left to celebrate mass, while every trade and craft was suspended in the universal terror and suspense.

To add to the horror of the times bands of marauders roamed about unmolested, robbing alike the dead and the living, and dogs, deprived of their masters by death, came together in packs, made ferocious by hunger, and scoured the country like so many bands of wolves.

The Panacea of Nature.

Every great and commanding moment in the annals of the world is the triumph of some enthusiasm. The victories of the Arabs after Mohammed, who in a few years from a small and mean beginning established a larger empire than that of Rome, is an example. But there will dawn ere long on our politics, on our modes of living, a nobler morning than that Arabian faith in the sentiment of love.

This is the one remedy for all ills, the panacea of nature. We must to lovers, and at once the impossible becomes possible. Our age and history for these thousand years have not been the history of kindness, but of selfishness. Our distrust is very expensive. The money we spend for courts and prisons is very ill laid out. We make by distrust the thief and burglar and incendiary, and by our court and jail we keep him so. An acceptance of the sentiment of love throughout Christendom for a season would bring the felon and the outcast to ourcside in tears, with the devotion of his faculties to our service.—Emerson.

Worry

Almost Unnerved Me —Heart Pains.

Short of Breath, Faint and Languid.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine Cured Me.

"It has been five years since I was cured of heart trouble by your Heart Cure and Nervine, and I am just as sound as a dollar that organ today. For several years I had been suffering with my heart. Breathing had become short and difficult at times, short, sharp pains about the heart, sometimes accompanied with fluttering, would make me feel faint and languid. The least excitement or mental worry would almost unnerve me. I felt that the trouble was growing worse all the time, and after trying many remedies prescribed by physicians without obtaining relief, I was induced to give your remedies a trial. I was relieved the second day, and after taking three or four bottles all symptoms were removed and have never showed signs of returning."—Rev. Geo. W. McAdoo, Chincoteague, Va.

"There are many symptoms of heart disease, which so closely resemble those of more common nervous disorders as to frequently mislead the attending physician. Often in cases of heart trouble the stomach, kidneys, liver or lungs become affected. Again the symptoms may be those of weakened nerves, as tired feeling, sleeplessness, dizziness, the patient is easily excitable and apt to worry without cause. If you have the least suspicion that your heart is weak study your symptoms and begin the use of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, the great heart and blood tonic, without a day's delay.

All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. Send for free book on Nervous and Heart Diseases. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Pain is a Relative Term.

"Pain" even in the human subject is purely a relative term. It expresses a very real sensation, but it does not express its degree. And so far as mankind is concerned the sense of pain, in the intensity in which it can be felt, depends very largely indeed upon two great factors. The first of these is civilization, and the second factor is that of education.—London Magazine.

Styles of Architecture.

In their architecture the Moresque strove for the negation of the weight altogether; the Egyptian placed the weight firmly on the ground; the Greek lifted it up in the air with an assertion of graceful power; the Roman confessed weight and support; the Byzantine represented weight without support; the Moor suggested that there was no weight at all.

Pickled Statues.

The marbles in Westminster palace are treated to a bath once a year. They are first sponged off with water and then "pickled." This pickle consists of a solution of soft soap and sulphur, which removes the incrustations due to the smoke laden atmosphere and is said to do the marble no harm.

No Familiarities.

"I suppose you are familiar with John Ruskin, Miss Tootles?"

"Indeed I am not! I never allow myself to become familiar with men, Mr. Pearson. I have not even met the person you refer to!"—Kansas City Journal.

The fellow who sits down and waits for his rich relations to die must consider that they are worth their wait in gold.—Philadelphia Record.

CONSPIRING WITH CUPID

By Eper W. Sargent

Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure

As all Branscome had decided that Charles Schermerhorn was the fit and proper mate for Mabel Howard, that independent young woman properly decided to transfer her somewhat unsettled affections to Frank Caswell. Branscome folks pointed out that Schermerhorn had been her girlhood's sweetheart, was now well to do, and their union would crown a very pretty little romance.

On the other hand, Caswell was practically a newcomer in the village, having made his advent two years before, when Branscome arrived at the dignity of supporting a national bank. The directors had brought him up from the city to act as receiving teller and to teach the Branscome boys how to conduct a bank. He had proceeded to make himself generally liked, and the only thing that could be urged against him was that his very evident fondness for Mabel Howard threatened to destroy a Branscome romance.

Oddly enough, Caswell and Schermerhorn were the closest of friends. Despite dire predictions of personal encounters nothing marred the course of their friendship, and Schermerhorn seemed to find very satisfying consolation in the company of Grace Payne, Caswell's half sister, who kept house for him.

So matters stood when Anabel McPherson decided to give a Halloween party. Miss McPherson, known as Anabel to the entire village, was old Captain McPherson's daughter, and, inheriting her father's estate, she had become the richest woman in the village. Much given to novel reading, Miss Anabel had never married, fearful that each suitor was seeking her fortune rather than her hand. At forty-two she was still a single and by no means unattractive woman, with a kindly heart and a head filled with romantic fancies. It was her delight to make the affairs of others her own, and this Halloween party was given for the express purpose of setting matters straight between Schermerhorn and Mabel Howard. Well versed in the superstitious lore of love, she decided that with a little assistance Cupid might yet achieve a victory and bring the pair together.

Among the tests for the evening Miss Howard had decided upon that of naming candles. Different names would be given several wax tapers; the last one left burning would indicate the name of one's future husband. She used tiny wax tapers, homemade, and by giving one twice as thick a wick as the other she argued that one would burn twice as rapidly, and thus prepared, in a fever of anticipation she awaited the coming of her guests.

There were the usual tests of suspended apples, floating apples, popping chestnuts and mirrors. Finally, with great glee, Miss Anabel brought out the two tapers.

"Here's a test for Mabel Howard," she announced ingenuously, for, as mistress of ceremony, she had seen to it that Mabel had taken no prominent part in the earlier tests. "This," she said, as she placed the candle on the table, "I shall name Charles and this," pondering the one with the quicker stick—"well, suppose we name it Frank."

Mabel blushed redly at this very pointed allusion, and half started up as though she would leave the room. Caswell laid a detaining hand gently upon her arm.

"Don't," he whispered. "She means well and to leave now would only serve to make a bad matter very much worse." Mabel sank back in her seat, but presently all were crowded around the table where the two candles were burning brightly. Caswell was not superstitious, but the spirit of the hour was upon him and he noted with some concern that the candle was burning away much faster than the other. Miss Anabel noted with pride the approaching success of her experiment, and, her gentle heart throbbing, she hovered over the candles.

Caswell's candle was now within half an inch of the candlestick, while fully two inches of Schermerhorn's remained. Suddenly a gust of cold air blew in from a window that had just been raised and a moment later some one opened the door in the hall to admit a gust of icy air, and the flames flickered perilously. With a shriek Miss Anabel rushed to close the window, but, as the heavy sash dropped with a bang, an excited clamor arose at the table and she heard with confident contraction of the heart some one laughingly announce "Caswell wins."

She made her way to the table, and there, still burning brightly, but almost consumed, was the candle she had named for Frank, while a smoking stub contained a full inch of wax on the other.

In an instant a babel of talk arose, and under cover of the excitement poor Miss Anabel stole over to the window and sent to get the letter of her disappointment.

* * * * *

The quartet whose love affairs were shaking gossipy little Branscome to its very foundations walked home slowly in the crisp autumn moonlight. Caswell bent fondly above Mabel's drooping head.

"I have a confession to make," he said. "It may not have been quite fair, but when that draft came I shielded my candle."

Mabel laughed nervously, and her voice was low and uncertain.

"I—I guess I wasn't quite fair either, but I don't want dear Miss Anabel marrying me off according to her yellow backed novels, and—and I'll beg out Charlie's candle."

A deep chuckle interrupted their mutual confessions. Schermerhorn's rich, wholesome tones announced:

"Let the good work go on. When I saw things were going against you, Frank, I opened the window, hoping to blow out both candles and stop the nonsense entirely."

"And I," chimed in Grace Payne, laughing. "well, I opened the door to help on the draft. It wouldn't do to let the Halloween sprites confirm the decision of Branscome in pairing us off as Miss Anabel. And I believe one did it all on purpose."

"Never mind," said Schermerhorn cheerily. "She shall be bridesmaid or maid of honor or anything you girls like when the weddings come off, for, really, she brought matters to a climax."

And he patted Grace's little hand, snuggling against his great arm, while Frank Caswell and Mabel disappeared within the portals of the Howard home.

Candy For the Theater.

Mrs. Smythe never eats candy, yet when she is ready to go to the theater she bought a box of mixed chocolates.

"Why are you taking that along?" asked her neighbor in the adjoining flat, who knew Mrs. Smythe's unnatural antipathy for sweetmeats.

"For Mr. Smythe to nibble at," was the reply. "He will eat half a boxful before the play is out."

"How funny!" said the neighbor. "I didn't know that men were given to eating candy in the theater."

"That just shows that you don't go very often yourself or else fail to make good use of your eyes while there," Mrs. Smythe retorted. "Since Mr. Smythe developed such an appetite for sweets I have been watching other men, and I find that of the couples who go to the theater provided with a box of candy the man eats three chocolates to the woman's one. There is a chance that that one sided arrangement is partly due to the woman's fear of getting her gloves soiled by digging into the candy box, but I take it to mean that men eat more candy when in a theater than women do simply because they like it better."—New York Times.

Ochiltree's Ready Wit.

On the day of Grover Cleveland's first inauguration in Washington Thomas P. Ochiltree took a cab to go to the capital. The driver was drunk, and the horse ran away. Tom was thrown out and so severely injured that he was on crutches for more than a year. He sued the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which owned the cab, for $20,000 damages. His friends jocularly insisted that he would cling to those crutches until the suit was decided. Meanwhile he went to a Clover club dinner in Philadelphia and, being called on to speak, arose to respond, with no crutches in sight. As soon as he uttered the words, "Mr. President," Mr. Postlethwaite of the Pennsylvania railroad, one of the brightest fellows in the club, sang out, "Colonel Ochiltree, where are your crutches?" It was egough to floor most men, but Tom was equal to the emergency. Quick as a flash came this answer: "Under the table, sir, where you will be in a few minutes." Mr. Postlethwaite joined as heartily as anybody in the laugh following this knockdown blow.

Paine's Celery Compound

Cures DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, AND STOMACH TROUBLES.

The tortures and evils of dyspepsia and indigestion are experienced by thousands at this time. The dyspeptic's train of evils may be enumerated as follows: feelings of dizziness, languor, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, distension of the stomach, loss of flesh, difficult breathing, and the action of the heart is seriously affected.

All forms of dyspepsia are quickly banished by the use of Paine's Celery Compound, for it is a marvelous medicine always in the inflammation of the nerves caused about the stomach; it opens up the sources of the body to the nerve centers; it cleanses the blood; it makes new nerve fibre; it restores digestive power, and promotes bodily strength and activity. Mr. Fred. Ross, Cherryville, Iowa, briefly writes about his happy experience with Paine's Celery Compound as follows:—

"It gives me great pleasure to testify to the merits of Paine's Celery Compound. I can truthfully say that it is the best and only medicine in the world. Two years ago I was suffering from indigestion and nervousness, and was run down, but I could hardly walk without help. I used two bottles of Paine's Celery Compound and got better almost from the first dose, and have had no use for medicine since. I was completely cured."

Emphasizing a Fact.

There are peculiarities, idiosyncrasies of expression, which emphasize and accentuate facts. It is not enough to say, 'he is deaf." We invariably add, "as a post." It would appear sufficient to say, "he is blind," but we prefer in nearly all cases to admit of no contradiction by announcing that he is "stone blind." To be "dead" should suffice, "dead as a doornail" clinches the fact.

Oils For Anointing the Body.

Butter is noticed by Pliny as used by the negro and lower classes of Arabs for anointing the bodies. The natives of India prefer olives perfumes for this purpose and the oil of santal and oil of patchouli. Savages also, grease their bodies, but probably with the idea of being enabled to escape more easily from the grip of an enemy.

A Ridiculous Wish.

King James I. of England was once presented with an address by his subjects in Shrewsbury, in which he expressed the hope that he would reign over them as long as sun, moon and stars should endure. "I suppose, then," said the king, "that you wish my successor to reign by candlelight."

An Ugly Stomach.

"Wordley tells me he has been working on his family tree of late."

"Yes, it keeps him pretty busy."

"Rather complicated work, eh?"

"Well, I believe he found a noose on one of the branches, and he's having some trouble untying it off."—Philadelphia Press.

A Story of "Old Ironsides."

One of the most famous of the Constitution's exploits was during the war of 1812, when she escaped from Broke's squadron, among which she had accidentally fallen. The sea was almost a dead calm, so Captain Hull had to resort to towing. All her boats were lowered, with long lines attached, and in addition Hull had ropes spliced together to make a line half a mile long, to which he attached a hedge anchor. This was carried in a boat half a mile ahead and dropped, when the crew hauled the ship rapidly forward. The commodore of the English squadron soon adopted the same tactics, and if it had not been for a breeze springing up the Constitution would have been captured.

The Shark Flies the Feather.

Speaking of sharks to an old sailor, I first heard the proverb "The shark flies the feather." It appears to be true. We are acquainted with the voracity of the shark. When following a ship it will devour without discrimination any article that may be thrown overboard, such as cordage, coax, cloth, wood, wheel, knives, spoons, forks, plates, etc., but sailors declare that it will never touch a pilot fish or a fowl, either alive or dead. It avoids sea gulls, sea hens, petrels and every feathered thing. Such being the case, why do not people who bathe in shark infested waters wear a suit made of feathers?—New York Press.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera And Diarrhoea Remedy.

Is everywhere recognized as the one remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of a great many children each year. For sale by Haydon's druggists.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds to be unequaled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentorville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefitted. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia, and Grip. Guaranteed by C. J. Haydon, druggist. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c. and $1.00.
